

Andon Light Kit

These Andon manual call light systems are ideal to indicate status to other areas of the production environment or as a simple 'call for help' system. This helps to cut wasted production or packing time down to a minimum.

Colour-coded push-button switches correspond with the same colour light showing operator requirements. When a button is pressed the corresponding light illuminates until it is manually turned off.

The Andon light kit is pre-wired for easy installation into existing workstations
